Years in office, party of government, prime minister. He led the conservative party back to office in 1951 and remained prime minister until 1955, when ill health forced his resignation. The politics of the conservative governments. The 'government of national nostalgia',

2. steel industry was denationalized 3. Conservative party committed to building 300,000 houses a year. ○ conservative policies were successful by 1953 in that: As his government’s special emissary, he had mixed success in coping with. By 1924 churchill, a conservative once more, had become chancellor of the . In july 1945, a few weeks before the defeat of japan in world war ii, his conservative government suffered an electoral loss against clement attlee's labour. 'the problem of colonial immigration has not yet aroused public anxiety, although there was some concern, mainly due to the housing'.