When you first start working out your overall budget, it's normal to include calculations for the obvious things like rent, student loan payments and even groceries. But there's another important provision you'll want to add to the list: the federal income tax. Taxes are a significant part of your budget and if you're not careful, they can eat away at your savings and retirement funds. It's important to plan for taxes early in the year to make sure you have enough money set aside to cover your obligations.
